

Robert Thompson's

Craftsmen Ltd.

lovingly crafted to endure
for generations

Our craftsmen hand finish all our products, from the well-known and loved cheese boards to the large, bespoke pieces of furniture for your dining room, bedroom or living spaces. Our traditional range of furniture has a darker finish and hand-forged wrought iron fittings. The contemporary range (Millennium) is lighter in colour, with brushed stainless steel hinges and handles. You choose the style and finish to suit your living spaces.

What is it about wood that endures down the generations? It might be the warmth, durability, polished surfaces or an appreciation of the skill that created the piece. Whichever it is, Robert Thompson 'The Mouseman of Kilburn' recognised the relationship we have with wood and chose to work using only the best English oak. Air-dried, the oak is shaped into the many beautiful items shown in this brochure and every piece is still finished with a hand carved mouse by our craftsmen, using the same hand tools as Robert in the late nineteenth century. We believe, as he did, in using the finest raw materials to create a blend of traditional and modern products for your home today. These will endure down the generations as Robert's work has.

The finest English oak is air dried in our yard until reaching the maturity required by our stringent standards to minimise any warping or distortion. It is then carved into our extensive range, which you can get a taste of in the next few pages. Contemporary and traditional pieces are produced using time-honoured methods, which will become treasured items for this and future generations to enjoy. Our full range can be found at www.robertthompsons.co.uk.
